A War Romance.

[Walter Champ in Up To Date.]

CHAPTER I.

Fifteen minutes had passed since the daughter of the regiment had said farewell to Camp Hamilton. Lieutenant Krag Jorgenson had vowed eternal loyalty to her and his country. He would risk his life to win her prize. His heart throbbed violently as he watched the quickly formed of Katherine Larkspur disappear down the macadam road which seemed like a broad piece of white ribbon lying against a boundless stretch of green velvet. "A war prize valuable enough for an admiral," sighed the Lieutenant, pacing slowly back to his tent.

CHAPTER II.

With thoughts traveling in an opposite direction Katherine Larkspur journeyed homeward. Lieutenant Krag Jorgenson's agreeable manners impressed her more at each meeting. In her heart she felt that she could love the Lieutenant if he did but show his latent bravery in some heroic act. Musing thus, the cluster of approaching hoofs reached her ears. A cloud of dust arose on the forest-fringed road behind an approaching horseman. Katherine Larkspur stepped lightly aside to the bluegrass carpet of the roadside.

CHAPTER III.

Unfeigned horror was depicted on the face of Katherine Larkspur when she recognized Lieutenant Krag Jorgenson mounted on the runaway horse. Reeking with foam and with nostrils distended the thoroughbred animal raced onward. Now the girl snatched and the rider was all but unhorsed as the saddle slipped to the dusty road. As the maddened racer plunged the bride broke, and the rider's life seemed but a moment long. But just then Lieutenant Krag Jorgenson performed a most heroic and patriotic act, at which Katherine's heart beat joyfully. Rushing toward death he had clutched the hair which whipped his face! He had remembered the mane!

Penned From Porto Rico.

The following extracts are made from letters written from Mayaguez, Porto Rico, by Dr. Julius Purnell, acting Hospital Steward, U. S. Army, to his mother, Mrs. A. T. Forsyth, of this city:

I am now stationed at Mayaguez, which I like much better than San Juan or Ponce, Am at present in charge of the hospital of Battery D, Fifth U. S. Artillery. I have two tents—one for sleeping, and the other for storing drugs. Have a good spring cot, mattress, blankets, sheets.

Mayaguez has horse cars, electric lights, water works, and a good telephone system, and a band concert is given on the plaza each evening, so you see we are not in a health land. The scenery is grand and nothing is more beautiful than a moonlight scene in Porto Rico.

One dollar of Uncle Sam's money is worth $1.60 in Porto Rican silver. Fine cigars can be purchased here for three cents, and oranges can be bought for three cents of our money.

We have good fare here. Dinner to-day consisted of roast beef, potatoes, tomatos, beans, rice pudding, baker's bread and coffee. The bread is exceptionally fine, being baked in small loaves, and one is issued to each man at meals. A bright little Porto Rican boy, who is rapidly learning to speak English, waits on me and brings my meals to my tent. His salary is five centavos per day—about three cents in our money.

The sea bathing is very fine here and I take a dip in the surf almost every day, using the ambulance for a dressing room. To-morrow I expect to go out into the country to gather some oranges and bananas from the trees, and to secure some relics.

I enclose a piece of maiden hair fern, plucked from the mountain side just back of our camp, where they grow in great quantities. Also enclose a Spanish silver coin which circulates here.

When it rains here—and that is often—the water comes down in sheets. The mosquitos are very vicious and almost push one off his cot. Yesterday I made requisition for and secured a net, and can now defy them. I have gained four pounds since we arrived on the island. I am well pleased so far, and though among strangers, I have received the kindest treatment.

STOCK AND TURF NEWS.

Sales and Transfers Of Stock, Crop, Etc. Turf Notes.

Drake Thompson has bought seventy-five feeding cattle from Montgomery parties.

Sydney Paget, of New York, has bought the famous thoroughbred stallion Meddler, for $49,000.

James Ferguson has bought a bunch of feeders from Harrison county parties at four cents per pound and one dollar premium.

The fast pacer Bumps 2:04, by Baron Wilkes—Ethel, by Strathmore, has been sold by Samp Wilson & Bro., of Lexington, to F. G. Hartwell, of Chicago, for $2,500.

The Sentinel-Democrat reports about 4,000 cattle on the market at Mt. Sterling court, mostly selling at 4 to 4 1/2 cents. Louis Rogers and Ed Rash each bought bunches of cattle at 4 1/2, and F. M. Honston bought twenty-eight 800-lb. steers at $3.40 per cwt.

Be Careful

No woman can be too careful of her condition during the period before her little ones are born. Neglect or improper treatment then endangers her life and that of the child. It lies with her whether she shall suffer unnecessarily, or whether the ordeal shall be made comparatively easy. She had better do nothing than do something wrong.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is the one and the only preparation that is safe to use. It is a liniment that penetrates through the outside. External applications are eternally right. Internal medicines are radically wrong. They are more than humbugs—they endanger life.

Mother's Friend helps the muscles to relax and expand naturally—relieves morning sickness—removes the cause of nervousness and headache—prevents hard and rising breasts—shortens labor and lessens the pains—and helps the patient to rapid recovery.

From a letter by a Shreveport, La., woman: "I have been using your wonderful remedy, Mother's Friend, for the last two months, and find it just as recommended."

Druggists sell it at $1 per bottle.

Could Be Used Often.

The following anecdote illustrates Donizetti's susceptibility and quick wit. During his long stay at St. Petersburg he played by command before the Czar Nicholas, who entered into conversation with a bystander in the course of the piece. Donizetti at once broke off the performance.

"Why have you stopped?" asked the autocrat.

"Sire," was the reply, "when the czar is speaking everybody else should be silent."

Pessimism.

"There is a great deal of difference," she said with sarcasm, "between the way a man parts with his money before he is married and afterward."

"Yes," said Mr. Pennywise. "Before marriage, when he gives her a $3 bunch of flowers, she says: 'Thank you, George. You are so good and kind and generous.' But after, when he gives her three-fourths of his salary, she merely looks hurt and says, 'Is that all?'"—Washington Star.

Juries In Mexico.

There are no "professional jurors" in Mexico. Nine of a man's peers try him, and a majority is a verdict. If the nine are unanimous, there is no appeal. To serve on a jury one must have a diploma in law, medicine or some other profession, or an income of $100 a month, or he must be a member of a family whose head has an income of $2,000 a year.

Delicate Children

They do not complain of anything in particular. They eat enough, but keep thin and pale. They appear fairly well, but have no strength. You cannot say they are really sick, and so you call them delicate.

What can be done for them? Our answer is the same that the best physicians have been giving for a quarter of a century. Give them of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It has most remarkable nourishing power. It gives color to the blood. It brings strength to the muscles. It adds power to the nerves. It means robust health and vigor. Even delicate infants rapidly gain in flesh if given a small amount three or four times each day.

Boucicault and His Hair.

Boucicault for a number of years used to dye the little fringe of hair he had, and it generally took on all the hues of the rainbow, much resembling Tittlebat Titmouse's experience in coloring his hair.

I was standing in front of the Union Square theater one day after rehearsal with the late Charles R. Thorne, Jr., and Joe Polk, writes Owen Fawcett, and we were arguing the question who should "buy," when along came Boucicault, as chipper as ever. Of course he must stop, ask all the news and have a chat, for he was a most entertaining man and well worth listening to. On his preparing to leave Polk said, "Mr. Boucicault, I do not wish to insult you, but I wish to congratulate you on one thing."

"Not a bit of it, my boy," said Boucicault. "What is it, Polk?"

"I see that you have given over dyeing your hair or what little hair you had, and you do not know how much better it makes you look."

"Yes," said Boucicault, "I have found out one thing, and that is in all the years I have been foolish enough to paint my hair I was only deceiving one person, and that one was myself. Good day, boys."—Detroit Free Press.

Spanish Cruelty.

The cruelty of the Spaniard, or rather his callousness, his recklessness of the lives of others, and even of his own, is a medieval and oriental survival, says Irving Babbitt in The Atlantic, and then, too, there underlies the Spanish temperament I know not what vein of primitive Iberian savagery. Mme. d'Aulnoy relates that on a certain day of the year it was customary for court gallants to run along one of the main streets of Madrid, lashing furiously their bare shoulders, and when one of these penitents passed the lady of his choice among the spectators he bespattered her with his blood as a special mark of his favor.

Insensibility to the suffering of animals, though general in Spain, is not any greater so far as my own observation goes, than in the other Latin countries. Possibly medieval religion in so exalting man above other creatures, in refusing to recognize his relation to the rest of nature, tended to increase this lack of sympathy with brute creation. The Spanish peasant belabors his ass for the same reasons that Malebranche kicked his dog—because he has not learned to see in it a being organized to feel pain in the same way as himself.

Slow Eating May Be Bad.

According to The Journal of Mental and Nervous Diseases, slow eating is as bad as fast eating. "The important point is not that we eat slowly or fast, but that when we do eat we chew with energy. Of course where the haste is due to some mental anxiety this may injuriously inhibit the secretions. Slow eating begets a habit of simply masticating the food without really masticating it, while the hurried eater is inclined to swallow his food before proper mastication. Hence hurried eating is bad, but rapid mastication is advantageous. It concentrates our energies on the act in question, and hence more thoroughly accomplishes it. Moreover, energetic chewing stimulates the secretion of saliva in the most favorable manner. These various points are so commonly misunderstood, at least by the laity, that they demand our frequent attention."

The Gloved Pasha.

Mustapha Pasha Fehmi, prime minister of Egypt, decorated by Queen Victoria with the grand cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, is known throughout Egypt as the gloved pasha, owing to the fact that no one has ever seen his left hand bared since the day two and twenty years ago when, as one of the chamberlains of the late Khedive Ismail, he helped his colleague, Sahmi Pasha, to strangle the Egyptian minister of finance at the close of a supper party given by the wicked old khedive on board his steam yacht, lying at anchor in the Nile at Cairo, just off the palace of Gezereh.

The Firecracker.

The firecracker so extensively used by Americans in celebrating Independence day is a Chinese invention and is supposed to have been used in China in prehistoric times as universally as it is now used in the Flowery Kingdom upon nearly all ceremonious occasions. Its original use is supposed to have been to frighten away evil spirits, and in some parts of the Celestial empire it is still regarded as an effective weapon against ghosts and hobgoblins.

Home Influences.

Each one of us is bound to make the little circle in which he lives better and happier; each of us is bound to see that out of that small circle the widest good may flow; each of us may have fixed in his mind the thought that out of a single household may flow influences which shall stimulate the whole commonwealth and the whole civilized world.—Dean Stanley.

Oh, the Pain of Rheumatism!

Rheumatism often causes the most intense suffering. Many have for years vainly sought relief from this disabling disease, and are to-day worse off than ever. Rheumatism is a blood disease, and Swift's Specific is the only cure, because it is the only remedy which can reach such deep-seated diseases.

A few years ago I was taken with inflammatory Rheumatism, which became so intense that I was for weeks unable to walk. I tried several prominent physicians and took their treatment faithfully, but was unable to get the slightest relief. In fact, my condition seemed to grow worse, the disease spread over my entire body, and from November to March I suffered agony. I tried many patent medicines, but none relieved me. Upon the advice of a friend I decided to try

S. S. S. Before allowing me to take it, however, my guardian, who was a chemist, analyzed the remedy, and pronounced it free of potash or mercury. I felt so much better after taking two bottles, that I continued the remedy, and in two months I was cured completely. The cure was permanent, for I have never since had a touch of Rheumatism though many times exposed to damp and cold weather.
